

Eric J. Conn is a founding partner and Chair of the national OSHA • Workplace Safety Practice Group at the law firm Conn Maciel Carey PLLC, where he focuses his practice on all aspects of occupational safety and health law.

Mr. Conn represents employers in inspections, investigations and enforcement actions involving OSHA, state OSHA programs, the Chemical Safety Board, MSHA, EPA and state and local safety agencies. He also handles all aspects of OSHA litigation, from criminal prosecutions to appeals of citations.

Mr. Conn conducts and directs attorney-client privileged workplace safety audits, delivers safety training, and helps employers develop and implement compliant safety and health programs.

He writes and speaks extensively on safety and health law issues, including serving as chief editor of the award-winning OSHA Defense Report blog, and authoring chapters in multiple OSHA Treatises.

Mr. Conn and Conn Maciel Carey's OSHA Practice Group have substantial experience and expertise assisting employers in the grain industry, having represented employers in major inspections and enforcement actions involving grain elevator explosions, engulfments, entanglements with sweep and sub-floor augers, and numerous enforcement actions arising out of OSHA's Grain Handling Regional Emphasis Programs.